

SQ3R

This is a strategy to read a textbook more efficiently.

Before you read:

1. SURVEY – Look over the section you are about to read. Pay attention and read the headings, subheadings, pictures, graphs and captions.

2. QUESTION – Create a question out of the subheading.

Question words – Who, What, Where, When,
Why, and How

Question Word + Verb + Subheading

Example – Subheading: Native Americans

Question: Who were the Native Americans?

After you make up your one question – write it down.

3. READ – Read the selection. (Don't read more than one subheading section at a time – this helps you to remember the information)

After reading:

4. RECITE – Answer your question you made up before you read.

5. REVIEW – This now becomes your study guide.
